MATERIAL ARRIVES FOR ANOTHER ELEVATOR HERE

The Sunnyside Elevator Company Preparing to Build

Third Firm Have Applied for Elevator Site

It was stated in The Call a few weeks ago that the Sunnyside Elevator Co. having headquarters at Lethbridge, had applied to the C.P.R. for a site on which to build an elevator at Gleichen west of the Alberta Pacific Elevator Company's elevator, and it is now learned the Sunnyside Co. have been granted the site as on Friday last the first three carloads of the building material for the new elevator arrived at Gleichen, and a man was here Saturday completing arrangements for the hauling of gravel for the concrete foundation, which The Call is informed on the best of authority will be constructed as soon as the material can be obtained, and the building of the elevator will follow immediately after.

The Call has also learned from Agent Spurr that Jas. Richardson & Son, of Winnipeg applied a week ago for a site on which to build an elevator at Gleichen. The site they are asking for is just east of the present Alberta Pacific Elevator Co. elevator, and on good authority it is learned this firm also intend to have their elevator built at as early a date as possible, fully anticipating it will be in readiness to handle the crop here this fall.

As the Farmers' Union is also figuring on building an elevator at Gleichen, it appears very probable that by the time the next crop is harvested this will be one of the leading elevator towns of Alberta.

However, we are now quite certain of having at least two elevators and as another grain chopping plant and warehouse will be built and in operation by fall, it is quite certain Gleichen will be in a good position to handle the big crops anticipated for this year.

Strathmore Wins 5 From Gleichen Rangers

Communicated:

The Gleichen Rangers journeyed to Strathmore Saturday afternoon to play football against that town, with them went about a dozen fans. During almost the whole first half the ball was kept near the Strathmore goal but the Rangers lacked avoirdupois to put it through the goal. Three or four times the ball came up near the Gleichen goal and once it went through, which was the only goal scored during the first half. Shortly after the second half started the game was interruped by a runaway which took out the Gleichen goal posts and incidently nearly ran over a number of fans who were standing nearby, some of whom made some new records in long jumps getting out of the way. After that four other goals were scored in quick succession the Rangers inadvertently making two of them and when time was called the score stood 5 to nil in favor of Strathmore.

The fault with the Gleichen boys was that they were too light for the Strathmore boys as they bowled them over almost every time they met.

The game during the second half was faster and the play harder than in the first half as the high wind which favored the Gleichen boys during the first half compensated for the Strathmore boys during the second half.

After the game the Strathmore team entertained all of their visitors, football players and fans at a banquet in the King Edward Hotel. After dinner songs and music were indulged in till about 11 o'clock.

The Strathmorites proved themselves capital hosts, of which fact Capt. Geo. Moss acquainted them in a most eloquent speech and on behalf of the Rangers and all Gleichenites expressed hearty thanks for the kindness bestowed upon them.

A word of praise is due Sam Moss, the dashing inside left, who played a very hard game all through, likewise to our captain.

About 2 a. m. the Gleichenites repaired to the depot to return home on No 96, but alas, despite the waving of arms and the yells of the fans No. 96 went by at a rate of about 50 miles an hour. However, the crowd good naturedly returned to the hotel to wait until the afternoon train.

Building Five Stores

The Gleichen Trading Co. have completed all arrangements to start the construction of five store buildings, starting from the company's present store on Crowfoot street west to the Gleichen Hotel, a distance of 75 feet. The new block will have a depth of 50 feet and will be one story high.

Manager W. H. James states that already all of the stores have been rented, but he does not care to say by whom or what lines of business will be errried on in them without getting the consent of the tenants. However, the store next to the company's will be used by themselves for hardware entirely and the site occupied by E. Urch will be also used by that gentleman.

This will make a great improvement to Crowfoot street, and material improve the appearance of the town.

Mr. Urch states that other improvements will be made to his premises known as the "The Hub," including a building for the accommodation of his billiard tables and also a bowling alley, for which he has already ordered the material in the east. The new alleys are to be constructed of the best hardwood, and everything connected with The Hub will be of the best material obtainable.

W. A. Annual Meeting

Communicated:

The annual meeting of the Gleichen Branch of the Women's Auxilary was held last Thursday afternoon at the parsonage. President Mrs. S. Stocken gave a short address, which was followed by the reading of the secretary's and treasurer's reports which were adopted after which came the election of the officers for the ensuing year with the following result:

Mrs. Stanley Stocken, president.
Mrs. A. E. Jones, vice president.
Mrs. S. M. Dickinson, secretary.
Miss Stocken, treasurer.
Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Marshall incumbent's representatives.
Mrs. Jones, delegate to Calgary annual meeting; with Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Dickinson as substitutes.

This closed the business and all adjourned to the church, where Rev. Dear Paget, of Calgary, gave a most interesting address to women. Speaking of the work women have done in each century since the time of Christ upon earth he emphasized the fact that while many women gave of their time, talent and means to good work only a few names in each age came before the public prominently, but that aside the work of the many no less valuable. Mr. Castle closed the service with prayer, after which Mrs. Walter Geddes, of Calgary, gave a most stirring talk on the duty and privilege of individual W. A. members. Mrs. Stocken in a few words thanked Mrs. Geddes and invited all present in the church to the parsonage where tea was served.

Want to Drill for Gas at Gleichen

A Calgary Company Want All Rights to Supply Natural Gas for Term of Years

Mr. Dingman, manager of the company drilling for gas at Calgary, spent last Friday and Saturday in Gleichen, making an examination of and studying the formation of the land in this vicinity, and before leaving had interviews with several citizens, including members of the Council.

He stated his company was desirous of drilling for natural gas at Gleichen as they recognized this to be an important point and also the most central one in Alberta. The company will not ask a bonus from the town and are willing to spend from $20,000 to $25,000 as intitial cost if a franchise can be obtained allowing it the exclusive rights for thirty years to supply the town with gas. The details of the agreement wanted were not very fully gone into but it is understood the company is willing to set a fixed charge on the price for gas and give several other concessions to the town.

In conversation with one of the councillors he admitted the manager had talked to him along these lines, but said he thought it premature to discuss the subject at the present stage of negotiations. He thought it a matter for the Council to consider very carefully and fully, yet this could not be done until the company submitted a proposal in writing, which the manager had agreed to forward as soon as the documents can be prepared.

Mr. Dingman is quoted as stating it is his opinion a good flow of gas could be obtained at Gleichen at a depth of from 2,000 to 2,500 feet, or at about half the depth the company expect to reach it at Calgary, where the boring is now down 2,500 feet and a small flow of gas has been obtained, and where drilling will be continued for 5,000 feet.

The Calgary company has arrived at the right time as already the organization of a local company is underway for the same purpose, and the prospects of a substantial amount of capital being subscribed are exceedingly good.

This is by no means a new subject in Gleichen. Some 24 years ago A. E. Jones and his brother, C. Jones, who is an engineer, gathered samples of the formation at the "cut banks" a mile west of town, for the Hudson's Bay Company and forwarded them to Winnipeg and the company in turn forwarded the samples to Ottawa, where they were examined by government experts, who gave the opinion the samples were the result of a gas blowout. The supposition at that time was that it was from coal gas, but since natural gas has been obtained at different points east and west of Gleichen it is only natural to believe now that it was the result of natural gas.

A visit to the "Cut Banks" is most interesting and affords plenty of food for thought and speculation as to the cause of the great basement which at some far distant date has been torn out of the hill, leaving steep clay banks on all sides, but the east and west. On the west side of the basement it is somewhat lower than the rest of the land around the basement, save on the east side. The east though is much lower, being worn away by the water which after every rain comes down through it and on down to Gleichen, making at times quite a turbulant stream. There can be little doubt but that for sometime after the blowout there was quite a lake in this basement, but in time the water wore away the east bank and leaves it as it is to be seen today.

For the greater part the surface of the basement is now covered with white clay, but it is scattered all over with stones some of which weigh hundreds of pounds, but for the greater part they small stones. These stones give evidence of being washed for many years by water, being very smooth. They are of lime and sandstone formation, but nearly all give evidence of being burnt and thousands of them are to be found as black as coal. Pieces of petrified wood are also to be picked up, and there are many other things that make an interesting study for the geologist as well as the ordinary individual.

Whether or not Mr. Dingman has picked on this spot for drilling operations is not known, but it is not at all unlikely.

TO BRAKE 4000 ACRES THIS SEASON AT NAMAKA

The Big Namaka Farm Making Extensive Improvements

Geo. H. Walsh spent part of Sunday in Gleichen and in course of conversation with The Call man said extensive improvements were being made at the big Namaka Farm, of which he is manager for the Syndicate who purchased it last fall.

He said the new house was almost completed, which is a fine large structure and other building improvements are being made, although the men have already pitched a number of tents to accommodate the large force of men that are now employed on the farm.

Speaking of breaking up more land he said Messrs. Anderson & Neilson had a contract to break 1,000 acres this season with their horses; but that was only a small portion of what would be broken on the farm. He said a new 60 horse power steam engine had been purchased and the intention was to break 3,000 acres with it this season and when that was done farming on an extensive scale would be started, but there would still be plenty left to break again next year.

Contractor D.F. McArthur Lands Big Outfit

The Call was somewhat in error last week in stating D. F. McArthur was here to handle the contract for his brother of the Southern Alberta Irrigation Company's canals south of town, it is now learned he has taken the contract himself.

With his outfit of men, horses, vehicles and machinery he has materially aided in making Gleichen a very lively place the past week. Carload after carload of his outfit have been unloaded each day and each day twenty to thirty wagon loads have been hauled out of town across the Bow river bridge to the place where the work on the big undertaking is to start. Monday no less than 300 horses arrived by one freight train and yet these did not seem to greatly increase the number that had previously arrived.

Tuesday evening, however, practically the whole of the balance of the outfit arrived when a freight train side-tracked about 25 cars.

The west end of the town, where the unloading takes place, represents in some respects a monster circus ground. Horses are tied and corralled in every direction, while the prairie for some considerable distance is covered with hundreds of dump wagons and machinery. Close to the tracks a 50 foot warehouse is being completed and several large tents are pitched to cover the supplies, arriving by the car loads. Great piles of bailed hay are piled up and scrapers may be seen by the hundreds.

Some of the smart young Boris and Percies who are fond of saying "I don't think!" little know how true it is.

A. W. Osgood, of Montreal, paid The Call a pleasant visit yesterday. He is the promoter of the French colony locating at Oosterleetie, northeast of Gleichen. He stated he was here to arrange for the breaking of 1,000 acres for one member of the colony. Mr. Osgood said the prospects of the colony were very bright, although he had expected more members to arrive this spring than have, but many of them found it took longer to dispose of their farms in Quebec and settle up their business than they anticipated. Referring to the weather he remarked: "I feel more at home. We have plenty of snowstorms like this in Montreal and do not think much about them. I believe it is good for the farmers."

Education and Agriculture

The Albertan in a recent issue discusses the question of education and agriculture says:

The University of Saskatchewan will not open its doors for about 18 months but the governors have already made certain appointments. From the appointments which have already been made, leads one to the belief that the idea is to make the department of agriculture the foundation of the institution. The deputy minister of agriculture is to be dean of the university and another member of the department of agriculture is to be on the staff of the provincial university.

Such an education is very necessary in Saskatchewan and will be very necessary in a short time in Alberta, if not necessary at the present time. But the Albertan believes that no university will become a great factor in education, which has agriculture alone as its foundation. It is very well to have agriculture or medicine or law as an affiliated college or an associated department, but in every university, the strong arts department should be the factor.

A provincial university is not for the purpose of turning out doctors and lawyers, ministers, teachers or trained farmers. It is to be the fountain head of the educational system of the province. Its mission should be an educating and elevating influence upon all people. Its arts department is the head of it all. It gives to all who desire it a thorough and cultured education. It turns out graduates who are good citizens and in a good position to begin the learned professions or to launch out into commercial life.

The experience of the states in the union is that the best results in agricultural work are found in institutions not closely associated with provincial universities.

And in discussing the question of agricultural training, it will not be very long before some action should be taken about the establishment of an agricultural college in this province.

The department is doing very well in assisting young men and young women in attending eastern colleges of agriculture, but the time has arrived when something more could very well be done.

Prof. J. L. Snyder, of the Michigan State Agricultural College, is quoted as saying:

"In my opinion a separate institution for the teaching of agriculture, mechanic arts and domestic science will do a much better and more efficient work than if combined with a University. It would take many pages to give all the arguments in favor of a separate school. The history of agricultural education in this country is certainly in favor of separate schools that developed this system of education. The University did not and could do so. Within recent years the popular demand for this education has forced them to make large appropriations for agricultural education. They were not leaders in this movement. They have been forced to it. This all comes about in a very natural way. The atmosphere of our great Universities is not conductive to the development of the technical courses—especially courses in agriculture. Of course the sentiment of our Universities has changed in recent years; but it seems that at best they are not able to turn out as large a number of well educated men as are graduated annually from our separate schools. I think the history of the past is a very safe guide for the future.

The price of wheat is very high, and though there is much manipulation in the market, yet the real reason for the high price is the large demand, and the small supply. According to James J. Hill, who seems to be the wisest prophet on this continent at this time, the price of wheat will never be much lower. United States will soon be an importer of grain instead of an exporter. What does this mean to Western Canada? That this is to become the great wheat producing country of the world more rapidly than the most hopeful ever expected. With wheat at $1.00 a bushel, and land which can produce an average of more then 20 bushels of wheat to the acre, the comparative value of the prairie provinces as an agricultural district cannot be exaggerated. And under these conditions there can be no doubt about the early settlement of all vacant district in these western provinces. The prices of wheat to a great extent regulates the value of other commodities, but at the same time, that does not prevent the wheat producer from getting the big profit when the price is high.

Commencing July 1st next all bartenders will have to take out a license to dispense booze in Alberta, according to an act of the Legislature. The license will cost $2, but the mixologists will hardly object to that as it will place their profession in a higher class, where the average man cannot butt in on a moment's notice. Now that the profession is to be recognized by the government it may be expected that the young men wearing the diamonds behind mahogany will endeavor to put up the gentle nerve-ticklers in a style that will make Alberta famous. We suggest they issue a new list of high grade thirst-quenchers just to show their appreciation of the government's graciousness in acknowledging that the day has come when it is an art to cater to to the fastidious thirsts of the inhibitants of this sunny land. Here's to the "profess".

ECCENTRIC STAMPS.

Blunders That Bring Joy to the Hearts of Philatelists.

"The fascination of stamp collecting," said a postal official, "lies in the rare 'finds' which are continually made and the curious points which sometimes make a stamp of the face value of a few pence worth hundreds of pounds. For instance, the twopence blue Mauritius stamp which the Prince of Wales bought at a public auction for £1,450 was unique in one respect—the proper wording on it, 'Post Paid Mauritius,' had by a strange error been altered to 'Post Office Mauritius.'

"Another stamp which has been prized at several hundred pounds is valuable for the mere misspelling of a single word. It is a British Guiana issue worth just 1 cent, but it is sought after by all collectors because the word 'Patimosque' figures on it instead of 'Petimosque.'

"Again, a one penny Cape of Good Hope stamp changed hands the other day for nearly £200 simply because instead of being red, as are all the others of this issue, its color was blue.

"Some years ago in Western Australia a few stamps were printed with the figure of a swan upside down upon them. When the mistake was detected the issue was hastily destroyed. Several specimens had escaped, and one of them has been sold for £400."—London Tit-Bits.

THE SORROWFUL TREE.

Its Flowers Open at Night and Close With the Dawn of Day.

There is a tree in Persia to which the name "the sorrowful tree" is given, perhaps because it blossoms only in the evening. When the first star appears in the heavens the first bud of the sorrowful tree opens, and as the shades of night advance and the stars thickly stud the sky the buds continue gradually opening until the whole tree looks like one immense white flower. On the approach of dawn, when the brilliancy of the stars gradually fades in the light of day, the sorrowful tree closes its flowers, and ere the sun is fully risen not a single blossom is visible. A sheet of flower dust as white as snow covers the ground around the foot of the tree, which seems blighted and withered during the day, while, however, it is actively preparing for the next nocturnal festival. The fragrance of the blossoms is like that of the evening primrose.

If the tree is cut down close to the roots a new plant shoots up and attains maturity in an incredibly short time.

In the vicinity of this singular tree there usually grows another which is almost an exact counterpart of the sorrowful tree, but less beautiful, and, strange to say, it blooms only in the daytime.

Strong Rooms.

The Bank of England's strong room is one of the largest in the world. The foundation, sixty-six feet below the street level, is a bed of concrete twenty feet thick. Above this is a lake seven feet deep, and above that thick plates of iron specially manufactured to resist both skill and force. Any one attempting an entrance from above would find a similar bed of concrete, a similar lake and similar plates of iron. The walls are impenetrable, while the doors are one foot thick, weigh four tons each and are made absolutely undrillable.

The imperial Ottoman bank, Constantinople, had a marvelous steel fort built upon a water bearing rock, and on top of the rock foundation is a four foot bed of concrete. The ledger is over thirty-six feet, length forty-six feet and width twenty-four. The steel walls are surrounded by masonry and concrete six feet thick throughout, while the whole comprises nearly thirty tons of steel.

Circulation of the Blood.

The idea of some sort of movement of the blood in man and the lower animals was possessed by Aristotle and other Greeks and by the physicians of the Alexandrian school as well as by the doctors and surgeons of the middle ages. In fact, even the village barbers knew of such movement. But no one, not even the wisest of men, had any conception of a continuous stream returning to its source—a circulation in the true sense of the word—or of the functions of the heart as the motor power of the movement of the blood until it was demonstrated by Harvey in 1628.

The "Letters of Junius."

The vexed question of the real authorship of the "Letters of Junius" has never been positively settled. Mr. Chadwick, barrister, says to show that Sir Philip Francis was the author of the famous letters, while a strong probation, falls of absolute proof. The attempt was made to prove that Thomas Paine wrote the letters, but that, too, failed in convince. The question is still a mystery, though the balance of the evidence is in favor of Sir Philip Francis.

Dad Gets Sarcastic.

"Physical culture, father, is perfectly lovely. To develop the arms I grasp this rod by one end and move it slowly from right to left."

"Well, well!" exclaimed her father. "What on't science discover? If that rod had straw at the other end you'd be sweeping."

NOVA SCOTIA BLUENOSES.

No One Seems to Know Just Why They Are So Called.

Those who dwell in the Canadian province of Nova Scotia are called blue noses. The name has stuck to them since time out of mind, but how they came to get it is a matter of conjecture, one thing is certain—they don't like it.

Nova Scotians pride themselves on their English ancestry, and some will refer the suggestion that the name is a token that the blue blood shows. When the French were driven out of Arcadia the fertile lands they vacated were taken up by English colonists, chiefly from Massachusetts.

The spirit of revolt was strong then in Boston and elsewhere in New England. Those who were loyal to the king and taxes found it a good opportunity to move, and from these loyalists Acadia was largely repeopled.

It may be that the blue blood shows and that the name is a badge of honor, but most Nova Scotians don't believe it, for they feel that it is a term of reproach.

"Why bluenose?" was the question put to one young woman whose home but for from Nova Scotia.

"Why, after the bluenose potatoes, of course," she said, "and I think it's mean to name people after potatoes."

Now, it's true that, next to apples, potatoes form the greatest product of the rich Nova Scotia soil. And it's also true that the bluenose is the bright particular star among the varieties of potatoes they raise in Nova Scotia.

But the potatoes were named for the people, not the people for the potatoes. It's a simple question of chronology.

You explain it carefully to the young woman, and she says, "How silly of me!" but you can see with half an eye that you haven't convinced her.

Here's another guess. Being the third and last, maybe it's the right one. At any rate, it's the one generally accepted in that part of the American world known as down east.

It is said in Nova Scotia, mighty cold for six months out of every twelve, and the Nova Scotian nose, peeking out from the furs and woolen mufflers, first gets red and then turns blue as the icy breath of the north nips it.

But, however it is, the easiest way to get the Nova Scotia nose out of joint is to call it bluenose.

For Value Received.

When Mr Amasa Howe decided to turn the old Howe mansion on Todd's hill into a summer hotel there were persons who prophesied that he would make a success of it and others who were sure he would not, but at the end of two years it was evident to all that Mr Howe's enterprise was a financial triumph.

"And no wonder, when he charges for everything except air," said one of the dwellers in the village at the foot of the hill.

"What do you mean by that?" asked a visitor at one of the village homes.

"He doesn't charge for water, I hope?"

"Some of it he does," said the resident, nodding. "All that comes from the north pasture spring he dispenses a glass. I understand the folks who have the arty-archetyan well water free, but they all take the other and pay the cent. Charges 'em for riding, boating—half a mile walk included—bowling and the swimming tank.

"But the cap sheaf was the charge he made on the bill of a New Yorker. I heard tell that the man looked at it and looked at it, and finally he called Amasy and says he: 'Look here, isn't there some mistake about this?'

"'I guess not,' Amasy told him dry as chips. 'Your wife is so shortsighted she can't see up into the air, she tells me, and it's took my clerk or one o' the boys right away from their work night and morning to keep her posted on the wind.

"'You've been here a full month. I will one-fifty fer the use of weather vane pretty reasonable myself.'"

Italian Hat Straw.

Few people know where the straw for making summer hats comes from. A great part of it is grown in Italy. To make suitable straw the wheat is sown as thickly as possible in order that the growth of the plant may be impoverished as well as to produce a thin stalk having toward the end from the last knot the lightest and longest straw. The wheat blooms at the beginning of June and is pulled up by the roots by hand when the grain is half developed. If allowed to remain in the ground a longer time the straw would become brittle. About five men uprooted branches, the size of the compass of two hands, are firmly tied together into little sheaves and sowed away in lurus. Then the straw begins spread out to catch the heavy summer dews and to bleach in the sun. Five additional bleaching the straw is tied into small bundles and classified. Finally it is cut close above the first joint from the top and again tied up in small bundles containing about sixty stalks each.—London Chronicle.

Where She Drew the Line.

Mr Birrell's satisfaction that, owing to the bigness of heaven, it will not be inevitable that we shall knock up against the accumbtances there by have been suggested by one of Jim Ramsey's best Scottish stories, should be mentioned that at Hawick, a scene of the anecdote, the people used to wear wooden clogs, which made a clanking noise on the pavement. An old woman lay dying some friends said to her, "Well, Jessy, ye are gaun heavea, an' gin you should see oun ye are can tell them that we're a' weel."

"Weel," said Jessy cautiously, "gin I should see them I's tell them, but I manna expect that I am to gang keekin' looking through heaven looking oaur folk."—London Chronicle.

TOWN AND DISTRICT

A. J. Maisey will build a brick residence on his Sixth street property next month.

Ralph Notter left for Ontario last week to remain. His friends all wish him success in his new undertakings.

It is now up to some fisher in the next town to say Gleichen has a plenty of natural gas without drilling for it.

A general meeting of the Board of Trade is called for tomorrow night—Friday. A full attendance is requested.

It would now seem Kipling was wrong and Medicine Hat has not "got all hell for a basement"—Gleichen may have a corner on that basement.

Arthur Daw started for Ontario last Thursday to bring back his wife to Gleichen, when they will occupy their new residence on Sixth avenue.

J. A. Markle, inspector of Indian Agencies, has been in town for several days, and has purchased several fine stallions from John Clark, Jr., which Farm Instructor Brereton will take to the Battleford agency.

The town fathers will now have an opportunity to distinguish themselves in making a good deal with the gas company. It is the most important matter yet brought before the Council and will require most careful attention.

While playing polo one evening last week R. Brown was thrown violently to the ground and sustained a break in shoulder blade by his horse stepping in a gopher hole. His injuries were attended by Dr. Ross and were q ite painful for a couple days, but he is now mending nicely.

Claresholm Review: Wm. Quayle has sold out his cattle to the number of about 600 to E. Douglass Hardwick, of Queenstown, who will take them out east. Such a large number of cattle has not been brought into town at once for a long time.

Tuesday night a snowstorm set in and about four inches of the beautiful covered the ground. Then the wind blew quite hard all day yesterday, blowing the snow in every direction and forming some pretty good-sized drifts, but the weather was not cold.

F. W. Crandall, inspector of the C. P. R. Co., has purchased the southeast and northwest quarters of Section 27, 22, 23, near Stobart, and will put all into crop this season. This is all irrigable, and as Mr. Crandall has been connected with large irrigation enterprises in California for over 25 years, it shows his confidence in the use of water for producing crops. He states his purchase is not a speculation by any means.

J. A. McDonald, the popular C. P. R. telegraph operator, left on Monday for his home in Chesterville, Ontario, for two months well deserved holidays which he may possibly lengthen out considerably. Mack is one of Gleichen's most able fishers and before leaving he told The Call he intended to marry before returning. The reporter now is wondering whether Mack means business or was just forestalling the usual "he may not return single". In any case here's wishing Mack all manner of good things—a lady included.

On Thursday evening of last week J. Bouche received some very painful injuries by his team running away and the wagon wheel passing over him. He had just untied his team near the post office, it being about the first time one of the horses had been driven, they started off before he could get into the wagon. He, however, jumped on the whippletrees and catching the lines tons his outmost to hold them, but when they bumped over the crossing sading up the lane past R. H. Hoop's blacksmith shop he fell and the front wheel passed over his shoulder, along his side and over one leg. He was at once carried into the Gleichen Trading Company's store and Drs. Ross and Fergurson summoned, who soon pronounced no bones were broken and done what they could to relieve his pain. He remained over night at the Gleichen Hotel and is already able to go about The team none the worse for their run save caught one near Beampre's farm by his son Joe, who hearing of the runaway got a saddle horse from D. C. Wishart's livery.
